Most interviews consist of being asked a few basic questions. You can prepare yourself by writing out your answers and reviewing them before the interview. A lot of people get nervous during an interview, so it helps if you've already practiced what you are going to say.

Directions:

Read the questions on p. 2.

Write down your answers.

After writing down your answers, review what you wrote. Next, give this sheet to a parent, sibling, friend or teacher and have them ask you these questions to practice.

Ask for help if you don't understand.

Reminder: This is only one example.
This template may need to be individualized to fit your particular needs.
